To Whom It May Concern:

I am writing to support the nomination of Howard Alvias for the Eagle Award. I have had the pleasure of knowing Howard for the past year as the Head of Education Adoption Programs for Google Asia-Pacific.

Howard participated at numerous Google events where he interacted with teachers and showcased the use of Google tools. During one particular event, Howard was tasked with leading a group of teachers in a workshop on using Google tools in the classroom. Howard was initially hesitant, but he quickly rose to the challenge and delivered a clear and concise presentation. Teachers were impressed by Howard's knowledge and skills, and they were grateful for his help.

In addition to his academic achievements, Howard is also a natural leader. He is always willing to help others, and he is always looking for ways to make a difference in the world. Whether if it's a fellow student in need or an adult he can support, Howard is not afraid to step up to do the right thing.

I believe that Howard would be an outstanding recipient of the Eagle Award. He is a well-rounded student who is wise beyond his years and excels in academics, leadership, and community service. He is a deserving recipient of the award in recognition of his accomplishments and character, but will continue to exemplify these values as he heads into high school.
